Local Knowledge. Global Reach.

Who is Lexington Group?

Lexington is a value-driven organization that is committed to giving its clients the confidence to conduct their operations with the utmost precision, agility and effectiveness.

Since 2006, leading government and private organizations alike have turned to Lexington for our customer focused, high performance training and mentorship programs, our contemporary organizational design and policy development services and our rapid team augmentation capabilities.

With 'best-practice' knowledge and a deep understanding of your operating environment, our international team of security, aviation and change-management experts can help your organization enhance and sustain its capability to protect citizens, secure assets and safeguard investments against a variety of threats.

From start to finish: Training, Consulting & Operational Support

Lexington Group's clients are assured of tailor-made training programs, taught by our cadre of world-class instructors that enable them to accomplish their mission.

With a systems approach to training, our analysts help you to review your capabilities and along with our elite team of advisors, build you a logical and realistic program that delivers immediate benefits to your organization. Moreover, our extensive experience in instructional design, curriculum development and training delivery will ensure effective skills transfer to your team.

Lexington Group is also capable of providing you with turnkey solutions that elevate your operational agility. We can stand-up whole teams or augment existing ones. With un-matched access to a pool of skilled professionals, we can provide you with pilots, instructors, security personnel, project managers and other highly qualified personnel to help you get the job done.

Why Lexington Group?

Tactical Flight Officer and FLIR Operator Training in Aviation Law Enforcement Operations: When one of the largest police aviation units in the world required a specialized police air support training program in order to meet current and future policing requirements, Lexington Group deployed a team of law enforcement instructor pilots, Tactical Flight Officers (TFO's), and Sensor Operator trainers to build a first class police air support capability that could be integrated across the entire organization. Result: Lexington Group's customized law enforcement aviation training programs enabled pilots and aircrew to perform the law enforcement mission expertly, improved the Command & Control structure and greatly enhanced the unit's ability to provide effective air support for the ground units.

Lexington has the technical know-how and experience to provide you with contemporary, industry-focused solutions that give you distinct competitive advantage, no matter what segment you operate in.

Our consultants are experts in their respective fields and are strategic thinkers. Whether you are trying to gain entry into an emerging market or understand the risks to your organization's international growth potential, our experts will deliver relevant, practical, scalable and cost effective solutions to strengthen your safety and security measures, mitigate your exposure to event-risk and highlight the path for success.

We stand ready to deploy across the globe; wherever you need us. Our dedicated team will work alongside you at your organization; delivering comprehensive training, consulting and operations support specific to your needs, your culture, the environment you work in and the tempo you require.

Lexington
Group

Why Lexington Group?

Tactical Communications Training to a Police Organization: When a leading Middle East' law enforcement agency rolled-out a new tactical communications network, Lexington Group deployed a team of communications experts and trainers to optimize the network's capabilities, enhance Command & Control capabilities and maximize user proficiency across the force.
Result: Lexington Group's customised communications training programs improved the technical and tactical proficiency of thousands of police personnel, improved the Command & Control structure and enabled net-wide, tactical communication throughout the organization.
